Reds Suffer Big Defeat In Italy

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

Communism just suffered a big defeat in Italy - a defeat which is a personal victory for Premier Mario Scelba.

As the result of a labor union election, the Communists have lost control of the workers of the Fiat Motor Company in Turin.

That may not sound like much. But Fiat is Italy's biggest industrial enterprise. Fiat mechanics are regarded as the cream of Italian industrial workers. But the Reds had controlled them for years.

Communism has not been doing so well in Italy for quite a while. Although the Reds fought desperately to win the Fiat annual election, they lost out by better than a two-to-one majority. The defeat is expected to have its effect all over Italy.

Ambassador Luce Helps
The Red defeat is a victory for Scelba, now visiting in America because he is Communist enemy No. 1 in Italy.

Sharing in Scelba's victory, Clare Beattie, Luce, the beautiful, brilliant United States ambassador to Rome.

Mrs. Luce cannot, of course, interfere in Italy's domestic affairs. What she has done is to let it be known that factories in which the Communists have union control will get no contracts for American military aid production.

Italy's Communist Party is still the largest in Western Europe with a membership of just over 500,000.

Back in 1948 it was a serious threat. It had come out of World War II strong in membership and prestige because of its partisan activities against the Fascists and the Nazis.

The whole world watched the Italian parliamentary election. They feared the Communists would win. It would have been a serious business for the West.

Created Riot Squads
Scelba, who had been deceitfully calling a big part in their defeat.

Scelba declared war on the Communists. He reorganized the police, retooled them and formed new famous "Celer" riot squads.

The Communists were frimting borders all over the country. Scelba's men moved in - it was before Scelba's riot police were fighting wherever the Communists tried anything.

When in July, 1948, a student tried to assassinate Communist leader Palmiro Togliatti, the Reds organized a national revolt. Scelba packed the streets of big cities with police. Red demonstrations were broken up by force, and the great peteered out.

Since then, Scelba has fought the Communists his way. He has used the police and the Neo-Fascists, but the Communists remain his little enemies.

Police Little League

A meeting will be held Sunday 1:30 in the Murray High School auditorium of those persons interested in the Little League and Babe Ruth League program.

This will not be a fund raising event, but only to see who is interested in League work this summer.

Confessed Attacker To Be Questioned

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Police said today they will question the confessed attacker of a middle-aged woman concerning six murders along the Indiana-Kentucky border.

The attacker, Paul Wolcott Savery, 33, was captured in his girl friend's apartment at Chicago Wednesday night. Police said he "readily admitted" the brutal beatings of Mrs. Elizabeth Kretz here March 21.

Savery, who is also known as Robert Dennison, was to be brought here. Police Lt. Frank Arbuckle said he undoubtedly will be questioned about the rash of murders in the southern part of the state.

Police were on the lookout for a link between the slayings and the beating of Mrs. Kretz because of a similarity of methods.

Savery admitted he broke into Mrs. Kretz's home, stabbed and beat her, and tied her hands behind her with the belt of his trench coat.

Four of the murder victims were found with their hands tied behind them. All six had been shot through the head.

Three of the victims were killed last Monday at a farm home near the border town of Henderson, Ky. Their hands were bound with lamp cord and authorities called it the work of a "maniac."

On March 21, a 47-year-old mother was found killed in the same way, her hands bound with her own apron. The slaying occurred at Mt. Vernon, Ind., 20 miles from Henderson.

Two other persons were killed with shots through the head last December in Evansville, Ind., 20 miles from Mt. Vernon.

Police said residents of the two-state area were becoming panicky for fear the killer would strike again. Hardware stores at Henderson reported a sharp jump in sales of guns and ammunition.

Physicians said they hoped Mrs. Duncan would be able to recall details of the crime when she regains her strength, and the shock begins to wear off.

Police also were investigating a blood stained pair of trousers and a sports coat found yesterday by a resident of the Smith Mills area just south of Geneva, where the killings occurred. The clothing also will be sent to the FBI laboratory for a more thorough check.

Funeral services were held today at St. Annes Catholic Church, Uniontown, for the last of the victims, Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan. Goebel Duncan and his son were buried yesterday here.

Hollywood Sparkles On TV As Oscars Are Handed Out

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Mar. 31 (AP) — Marion Brando, a three-time Oscar winner, won the motion picture Academy Award Thursday night for the best male performance in 1954.

Grace Kelly, a fellow New Yorker who has been in the movies only a year, was given the nod over veteran Judy Garland as the best actress.

"On the Waterfront" was their city, too. "On the Waterfront" is a film about waterfront crime and violence which was made in New York, won eight Oscars, tying the record set by "Gone With the Wind" in 1939.

"On the Waterfront's" star, Brando, finally collected his Oscar for his portrayal of a brooding dock worker. His girl friend in the movie, Eva Marie Saint, won the best supporting actress award.

Sentiment 'Not Involved'
Miss Kelly won the best actress award for her role as "The Country Girl." Edmund O'Brien, the prettiest of "The Barefoot Contessa," was given an Oscar as best supporting actor.

All four players are first time Oscar winners.

The usually casual Brando, who hadn't attended previous Academy award presentations, ran to the stage of theantages theater to accept a gold statuette from Betty Davis. He was so moved he forgot his thank you speech and his hand shook as he held the statuette.

Before the event, Judy Garland, who staged a comeback in "A Star is Born," and Bing Crosby, one of Hollywood's best-known citizens and star of "The Country Girl," were not favorites to win. Miss Garland was rushed to the hospital to have a baby ahead of scheduled Tuesday and viewed the presentations on television.

"I thought Judy would win," Brando said. "I thought Bing would win. The sentiment was strong in behalf of Judy. In view of the fact Grace won, sentiment was not involved."

Kazan Best Director
The usually cool and collected Miss Kelly was so excited when her name was called she dropped her horn-rimmed glasses at the 27th annual Oscar event.

More than 2,000 movie celebrities and fans filled the Pantages Theater in Hollywood and another crowd jammed New York's Century Plaza. A potential audience of 55-million "attended" the two-city telecast over NBC TV and radio stations.

Miss Saint, an expectant mother, kissed her Oscar on the stage of the New York theater and gasped, "I may have the baby right here."

Best direction honors went to Elia Kazan for "On the Waterfront." The best song Oscar was won by Sammy Cahn and Julie Styne for "Three Coins in the Fountain."

"On the Waterfront" also won for best art direction, automatically giving it a star decoration plaque, technically its ninth award. But the film, shot entirely on location, had no sets so academy officials were uncertain as to who should receive the plaque.

Garbo Gets Award
Bob Hope, master of ceremonies for the event, kept the crowd roaring with his quips, such as, "This is Hollywood's biggest giveaway program. The secret word tonight is 'shucks!'"

"The losers get monogrammed do-it-yourself suicide kits," Hope promised.

An unusual special award was voted by the Academy's board of directors to Greta Garbo for "her unforgetable" performance.

Special awards also went to Danny Kaye for his unified nations film, "Assignment Children," and to Jon Whitley and Vincent Winter as best juvenile actors in "The Little Kidnappers" English.

Miss Garbo never received an Oscar during her long and illustrious career and the Academy decided to correct the oversight.

"Gone With the Wind" was voted the best foreign language movie of the year.

Walt Disney accepted two awards, and his studio netted two more, which runs his total to 24 since 1932.

Huge Dust Storm Covers The West

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — A dense black dust storm spread from southeastern Colorado over the Texas Panhandle today and a meteorologist at the Amarillo Weather Bureau said it was "one of the all-time greats."

The visibility was reduced to zero at Dalhart, Tex., and at La Junta, Colo. It was expected to drop as low as one-eighth mile at Amarillo.

"The dust bank is about 400 to 500 miles in width, extending from the mountain ranges in eastern Colorado and New Mexico into central Kansas," Amarillo Chief Forecaster H. C. Winburn said.

"At present there is no serious erosion in the Texas Panhandle, but the front is picking up local dust as it moves along," he said. "The dust is about 20,000 feet high and will probably continue very dense up to the middle of the afternoon."

Winburn said the dust storm moved in from Colorado and southwestern Kansas with a cold front that moved through Amarillo at 10:06 a. m. EST. He said the cold front was moving southwest at 18 miles per hour and at some points along the front winds were 30 to 35 miles per hour.

"This is the worst storm of the year for the Panhandle," Winburn said. "It is as thick as the black dust that hit Amarillo Feb. 19. That storm had winds up to 60 miles per hour for 19 hours and dust for 27 hours."

Army National Guard units received 88 Presidential unit citations for "outstanding performance of duty in action or for conspicuous valor or heroism" during World War II.

Pink Elephant Scores A Hit

By H. D. QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — An understudy who got her big chance to star at the mammoth opening performance of the circus came Wednesday night and just stopped the show at Madison Square Garden.

Her name was Karnaudi, an exotic miss, a native of India. When she appeared - nude, except for two coats of pink paint - people stood and cheered. Men howled and whistled.

A mob of photographers and reporters milled about her as she mimed round the tankard. Miss Karnaudi took the applause in stride. She stopped now and then to bow and wave her trunk. She is aged elephant. In her triumph she didn't seem to mind that riding astride her neck was a movie actress, a Miss Marilyn Monroe.

Miss Monroe also was rather scantily clad. She wore a few ostrich feathers and a striped velvet bow behind her, and nothing much before - except a strapless legless bodice spattered with sequins and pearls. Milton Berle, the master of ceremonies, took a look and said to the multitude:

"Compared to her, Jane Russell's a boy."

Both Miss Monroe and Miss Karnaudi stand out in many respects. They circled the track in four minutes, smiling at their respective admirers, moving together with a certain rhythm.

The idea of a pink elephant is to represent the "Morning After New Year's Eve" in a parade of holidays. It was put in specially for a star-studded benefit for the arthritis and rheumatism foundation staged at the opening night of the Ringling Bros. Barnum and Bailey Circus, the well-known "Greatest Show On Earth."

This correspondent watched Miss Monroe get into her costume. It was extremely interesting. Then he watched Miss Karnaudi get into hers. She was dressed by two members of the painters and decorators union, George Kira Local 803 and Abe Siegel Local 1011 using large brushes and exactly 10 gallons of paint of a hue called "blushing pink." They said most of their previous work had been painting gas tanks.

Robertson stated that he was present at a meeting between Waterfield and Wetherby at Louisville. Arbery said he talked with Waterfield shortly after the meeting.

The events that occurred during the meeting were disputed by the governor and Waterfield. Wetherby charged that Waterfield referred his support for Combs if in turn, the administration would support Waterfield for lieutenant governor. Waterfield, however, claimed Wetherby offered him the job of managing the Combs campaign, if he, Waterfield, would stay out of the race.

Robertson in his letter declared that Waterfield said "he had managed enough campaigns - that he wanted to be lieutenant governor."

Arbery had this to say in his letter, "He, Waterfield, gave me the distinct impression that he would prefer to run with the support of the state administration, if he could get that support."

Phone Cable Cut Near Fulton

FULTON, Ky. — Fulton County authorities today investigated the cutting of a telephone cable near Crutcherfield and two cables at Riceville Tuesday night.

C. E. Hughes, manager of the Southern Bell Telephone office here, said the acts of vandalism interrupted service to 30 residents of Riceville and cut 12 circuits to nearby cities.

Pete Byars, president of the Fulton Local of the Communications Workers of America, CIO, said the union knew nothing about the cable cutting and has not encouraged such acts. CWA members have been on strike against Southern Bell in Kentucky and eight other states since March 14.

Chemical May Help Fishing
FRANKFORT, Ky. — An important experiment on a new use for an unnamed chemical which could have a far-reaching effect on fishing in Kentucky and elsewhere was underway today at Dewey-Lake.

State biologists and chemists were keeping details of the experiment top secret, but the new method of using the mystery chemical may eliminate one specified type of fish use the shad - without injury to other fish.

The use of tee chemical was compared to weed killers which permit farmers to eliminate weeds without destroying desired plant life.

Minor Clark, director of fisheries for the state Department of Fish and Wildlife, said if the experiment is successful, the chemical could prove to be one of the most important tools available in fish management.

And, with the two-day experiment at the half-way mark, both Clark and Bernie Carter, chief biologist for the department, said all indications point to the success of the test, called "Operation Pioneer." Clark said the 20-man crew is using a plane to spray the chemical.

Governors Campaign Underway

FRANKFORT, Mar. 31 (AP) — The administration of Gov. Lawrence W. Wetherby, long past the skirmishing stage in its coming battle with the forces of A. B. Chandler, today was under renewed attack in regard to campaign finances.

At the same time, Wetherby added fuel to the flames in his verbal feud with Chandler's running mate, Clinton publisher Harry Lee Waterfield, on the subject of per-campaign promises.

Wetherby had no comment on a statement entitled "fair warning" issued by Chandler headquarters at Louisville yesterday, and published as an advertisement in several state newspapers.

The statement was directed to state employees and officials, warning them they will violate state law if they force contributions to the campaign funds of Bert T. Combs, the administration-sponsored candidate opposing Chandler for the Democratic nomination for governor.

It cited three Kentucky statutes, which it claimed were being violated by the "much-publicized two per cent for Combs campaign fund drive."

Regarding claims and counter claims concerning who made what promise to whom, Wetherby yesterday released copies of letters which he said would support his side of the Waterfield squabble.

The letters were from Harrison Robertson, who was defeated last November by the incumbent Rep. John M. Robertson, R-Ky., in the 3rd District race for Congress, and Phillip P. Arbery, a Louisville attorney.

Robertson stated that he was present at a meeting between Waterfield and Wetherby at Louisville. Arbery said he talked with Waterfield shortly after the meeting.

The events that occurred during the meeting were disputed by the governor and Waterfield. Wetherby charged that Waterfield referred his support for Combs if in turn, the administration would support Waterfield for lieutenant governor. Waterfield, however, claimed Wetherby offered him the job of managing the Combs campaign, if he, Waterfield, would stay out of the race.

Robertson in his letter declared that Waterfield said "he had managed enough campaigns - that he wanted to be lieutenant governor."

Arbery had this to say in his letter, "He, Waterfield, gave me the distinct impression that he would prefer to run with the support of the state administration, if he could get that support."

Rain Increase Is Success In West

The Water Resources Development Corporation which is proposing to extend its operations to Calloway County has been engaged in boosting rainfall for the past six years. Its longest term operation is in the Horse Heaven area of Washington, primarily a wheat raising country. The company started there in 1950 with 14,000 acres.

Today it is still operating there but has extended its operations to more than a million acres. Normally the light rainfall in that area results in two to three crop failures out of every five years.

The increased rainfall from operations there have resulted in excellent wheat crops every year since the company began its program. The company has had similar success in nearly half of the states of the union where it has been operating its rain increase program.

STOP THAT PLANE
GRANDRAPIDS, Mich., Mar. 31 (AP) — The pilot of loaded plane slowed his engines and ordered the leading ramp lowered Wednesday when he saw a woman rushing toward a plane, waving her arms frantically.

The woman rushed up the ramp to one of the male passengers and kissed him breathlessly.

"My husband got to kiss me goodbye," she exclaimed.

Replica Of Flintlock Is Produced

By HARMAN NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert B. Anderson, deputy secretary of defense, is going to get a replica of a weapon that helped us out in two wars.

This beautiful hand-made flintlock piece will come in mighty handy if ever Anderson happens upon a 17th-century battle along Pennsylvania Avenue.

The National Rifle Association of America is presenting to Anderson an exact copy of the flintlock. This was used by our forebears in both the Revolutionary War and the War of 1812.

The rifle people are holding their 34th annual meeting in the capital. Some months back, Maj. Gen. Merritt A. Edison, USMC, retired, decided that a suitable memento for the guest speaker at the banquet would be a flintlock rifle.

Since Edison is the executive director of the National Rifle Association, every agreed.

So the general dropped a line to Col. G. Brooks of Lovell, Ohio, an expert craftsman when it comes to building rifles. He told Brooks to get busy. Brooks studied up on what went into a flintlock rifle and got busy.

The finished product, which cost a pretty penny and is something to catch the eye of an lover of firearms, is now shined up and ready with a silver "present" to be presented in the Ohio camp.

Brooks worked hard to recapture the past. The rifle he has recreated precisely in the best tradition of early American, measures 62 3/8 inches overall and has a 28 1/2 inch octagonal barrel rifled with eight grooves. Its bore measures .637 inch.

Nothing is more traditionally American than the flintlock of the Pennsylvania or "Kentucky" rifle, used by the men who fought their way west, tamed some, cleared the land of buffalo and staked claim to the land.

It was developed by German, time makers who came here in the 18th century. The flintlock, indeed, was the finest firing piece of its day, its inception introduced a new standard of deadly accuracy.

Actually, flintlock action was the prevailing ignition system for fire-arms from 1650 to 1850. A chisel-edge, rectangular water of flint was clamped between the jaws of a cock.

You pulled the trigger and released the cock, which spring tensioned the chisel edge of the flint against the face of a steel hammer, making a shower of sparks lighting the powder. The powder, burned fast through the barrel, sent the bullet through the barrel.

The rifle people have quite an exhibition of weapons old and new at their meeting here. There is everything from the most primitive to the 50-caliber guns to the very modern.

OIL DERRICK DOWN IN FLAMES

A 20-YEAR-OLD oil well flames like a monster torch at Signal Hill, Calif., as firemen fight to keep other wells from being engulfed. Here the derrick goes down. Before the blaze was brought under control, three warehouses containing compressed gas cylinders caught fire. (International Soundphoto)

THREE MEN KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

AIR FORCE WORKERS search the wreckage of a B-47 for the bodies of three crew members killed when the jet bomber crashed near the edge of a heavily-populated housing development on the outskirts of El Paso, Tex. The plane struck the newly-laid foundation of a house and set fire to an unoccupied adjoining building. (International)

RECOVERING FROM RARE SURGERY

PENNY RAE RAYMOND, 7, of Waukesha, Wis., is shown with her mother, Mrs. Janet Raymond, at a hospital in Minneapolis where she is recovering from a rare heart surgery. The bloodstream of donor Ted Goodman was linked up to Penny Rae's to carry on life's functions while a crippling hole in the child's heart was being fixed.

CLIFFORD W. LOITZ, 45, is literally able to "keep his chest out" as a result of two operations at a hospital in Chicago. Surgeons found it necessary to cut out three ribs, the collarbone and the breast bone to remove a large tumor from left chest wall of Loitz. The defect was so large that simple closure of the remaining tissues would not produce enough stability in the chest wall to permit the patient to breathe. Surgeons therefore obtained a bone transplant from the body of a person who had recently died and made a successful graft onto the chest of Mr. Loitz. The latter is shown convalescing as a nurse checks his temperature. (International Soundphoto)

Russia Denies Secrecy Violation

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union today denied that Andrei Gromyko, who led any secrecy agreement at the London disarmament conference, Russia said its representatives would continue to make statements if they so desired.

Foreign Ministry Press Chief Leonid Ilyichev read a prepared statement to a press conference denying that any secrecy agreement had been reached by delegates to the United Nations disarmament sessions.

The statement added that Gromyko had reserved the right at the U.N. subcommittee's first session to make statements to the press about the activities of the disarmament subcommittee.

"This changes nothing. We will continue to hold discussions in private. But we will continue to make statements to the press until it is decided otherwise and as long as the situation is unchanged."

Today's Foreign Ministry statement also said that Gromyko's interview did not violate the U.N. General Assembly's directive of Nov. 8, 1953, which set up the subcommittee on disarmament.

This was so, the statement said, despite the wording of that directive that the subcommittee should carry on its work "in private."

Gromyko "merely exercised his right to correct false impressions given by Western representatives of discussions in the subcommittee, the statement said.

When he had finished reading the prepared statement, Ilyichev told the United Press, in reply to a question as to whether the Soviet government intended to continue making public statements to the press about the activities of the disarmament subcommittee.

"This changes nothing. We will continue to hold discussions in private. But we will continue to make statements to the press until it is decided otherwise and as long as the situation is unchanged."

Awards Will Be History Making, Said

By ALINE MOSBY

United Press Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — This year's academy awards show on television will be history making. For the first time in many years all the glamorous nominees will show up.

Entrants in the Oscar derby usually are on location or claim they're home with a cold. Last year Marlon Brando allegedly sent a cab driver to the event in case

he won a statuette.

But this year Jean Negulesco,

director of the Oscar show, hatched

the idea of hiring the wandering nominees into the program as presenters of awards.

"It was a stroke of genius," he said modestly. "People like to see the nominees. Instead of sitting in the audience with eye on their faces and applauding the winners

they are to be a part of the show."

'Hermite' present

Even the elusive Grace Kelly,

Marlon Brando and Burt Reynolds

will be seen. Nominees Nina Foch,

Eva Marie Saint, Karl Malden and

Dorothy Dandridge will be telecast

from New York. Audrey Hepburn

will appear via film from London.

The plot for this year's telecast was revealed at an unusual press conference. NBC set up a closed circuit broadcast — not heard by the public — and rounded up the press and network and academy

officials in New York and Hollywood. The two groups chatted about the program with the New Yorkers noisily eating lunch and clinking glasses over their microphone it was noon there.

Don't Like Routine

Each year the press complains about the academy award routine, and this year's questions went like this:

Q: Why aren't the Oscars handed out as the TV Emmys, with the dull technical awards omitted from the national broadcast?
A: Indignantly: Actors are no more important to us than technicians. These awards are made by industry workers to their fellow workers.
Q: Why aren't the second and third place runners-up revealed?
A: It wouldn't be fair to the winner — or the losers.
Q: Why did Frank Sinatra refuse to sing "Three Coins in a Fountain," which he introduced to the screen, despite the fact the writers Sammy Cahn and Jule Styne asked him to?

Already In Show

A: Frank already appears on the show as a presenter because he is last year's winner, and he felt it would not be gracious to appear twice. Dean Martin will sing the song.

Q: Why are winners pushed off the stage and not allowed to give thank you speeches? They used to be very colorful and now the Oscar awards are cut-and-dried.

A: The TV show has a very limited schedule.

Q: A television commentator Sidney Sholasky predicted if Brando doesn't win academy members will resign in droves.

A: Sheer nonsense.

Q: What was the New York press eating that sounded so good over the microphone?

A: Filet mignon and string beans.

Biggest Rummage Sale Is Planned

By VERNON SCOTT

United-Free-Staff-Correspondent PASADENA, March 29 (AP) — The "world's biggest rummage sale" takes place Thursday when hundreds of personal items belonging to ships will be sold to help support Boys Republic, a rehabilitation center for teenagers.

A choice bargain is George Gobel's original "dirty bird," a stuffed creature which George describes as "a sort of horrible hawk." In making the donation, he said, "I hope whoever buys him will get him out of my house."

Movie and television contributions make up a tiny part of the overall sale. Altogether more than 50,000 items will be up for grabs, everything from lingerie to football helmets, book collections, contributions are in the closet department.

Skin Tight Sweater Burt Lancaster donated the heavy black shirt he wore as the villain in "Vera Cruz." Van Johnson threw in a pair of wild cat socks and he wears with evening clothes, and Pecky Lee added a slim-fitting sweater.

James Leigh paraded with a filmy blue negligee and Liberace, a fancy necktie with a piano and musical notes printed on it.

Eddie Cantor and Dean Cain sent in sports jackets. Articles donated by the famous are labeled with printed cards. Pasadena's prettiest girls will be on hand to sell donations on a five-cent and served mostly by the women's auxiliary of Boys Republic, the rummage sale has provided a swimming pool, tennis courts, medicine and other good works for the school.

Thousands Graduated In its 47-year history approximately 5,000 youths have graduated from the institution which is adjacent to California's famous experimental prison at Chino.

The sale is held at Pasadena Civic Auditorium where long racks of dresses and suits are displayed in addition to shelves piled with toys, art objects, sporting goods, furniture, books and thousands of other little items.

Last year 10,000 people bought the place out of business in less than six hours. Customers came away with 15-cent shirts, 50-cent suit jackets and such cheap items as women's shoes.

Other stars contributing to the auction are Joan Crawford, Yvonne DeCarlo, Lucille Ball, Alvin Young, Ann Sothern, Bill Williams and Lassie.

There is always a large attendance of males who show up just for laughs. They contend the free-for-all around the women's hat counter is worth the trip.

Methodist Men Give Shot In Arm To Church

Louisville, Ky. — Three little Methodist churches in the Reelfoot Lake region of West Tennessee are getting a new lease on life. They are the Bogota, Mistoh, and Mooring churches, which now comprise the Methodist Lake County Parish.

The Bogota and Mistoh churches were "practically dead" until the Methodist Men's Club of Ridgely Methodist Church gave them a shot in the arm. The men started a program whereby one of the Ridgely laymen would "preach" at each church each Sunday evening.

And today, after the parish has been established and a pastor, Miss Addie Beth Holland, Ridgely, appointed, the Methodist Men still keep a great deal. They speak from the pulpits on alternate Sundays and assist in other ways. The Ridgely church contributes $500 toward the parish pastor's salary.

The Mooring church was not practically dead. It was dead. That is, it had been abandoned for ten to 12 years.

The Methodist Men's Club of Tiptonville Methodist Church repaired the church and nursed it to life again. Although it is not yet formally reorganized as a church, attendance and interest are increasing rapidly. Tiptonville contributes $500 toward the pastor's salary also.

Why were the three churches in such bad condition? Probably several factors were responsible, but it is believed that one was that they never recovered from the depression.

The rejuvenation is going to mean something to this county and to Christianity, said the Rev. Rogers, Ridgely pastor.

Among the leaders of the work have been Damon Headen, president of the Ridgely Methodist Men, and Glenard Riley, projects chairman of the group.

Local Mechanics Are Honored Recently By Chrysler Motors

Robert L. Bazzell and James McKinney have received official notice from Detroit that they have received awards from Chrysler Corporation.

Both men are employed by the Taylor Motor Company, local Dodge-Plymouth dealer.

They will receive bronze plaques in recognition of their successful accomplishment of several years' participation in a course of advanced automotive mechanics. McKinney has two years and Bazzell, seven years.

Notification came from W. B. Rice, director of Service of Physmouth and administrator of the nationwide training program under which more than 150,000 mechanics have received special training in the servicing of Chrysler Corporation cars and trucks.

"The training program is known nationally as the Master Technicians Service Conference. It is the largest among the most successful ever attempted by American industry," it assures car owners of expert service by master technicians - men who keep up-to-date on modern service methods.

"We take our hats off to these technicians," Rice said. "Many have taken this training on their own time, over a period of years. They have shown their determination to become experts in their field."

Robert L. Bazzell, who has served as the dealer's conference leader in the training program says, "The Master Technicians program takes the guesswork out of automobile service, keeps labor and material expenditures at a minimum, and results in more accurate work at less expense to the auto owner."

Enrollment in MTSC is voluntary. Every month, Plymouth dealers receive an instructional kit which deals with one special service problem. In each session, the men study the problem under discussion by using the sound slide films, booklets and charts which are included in the kit. Then they apply what they have been shown when they go to work on the auto parts or assemblies involved during the practical work period of the Conference. Each session ends with a written test, and each man's examination paper is sent to MTSC headquarters where it is reviewed, graded, and becomes part of his permanent record.

Tight Oscar Race Concluded Tonight

More than 2800 Hollywood stars, executives, technicians and just plain fans will jam the Pantages Theater on Hollywood Blvd. to watch flamboyant movie public event of the year.

Millions of TV and radio set owners across the nation also will "attend" the presentations which will be beamed to NBC TV and radio stations from 10:30 p.m. to midnight EST.

At post time, two comparative newcomers from New York, Grace Kelly and Marlon Brando, were given a slight edge to win the best-acting honors of 1954 over Hollywood veterans Judy Garland and Bing Crosby.

Behind Scene Yarn Told About Bombs

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON — My friend who has been watching bombs bursting in air over the Nevada desert has come up with a nice little behind-the-scenes yarn.

It seems that the Las Vegas gamblers are laying odds on when an atomic bomb will be fired. Las Vegas is 70 miles, or in seeing and hearing distance, of the proving grounds where the tests are being held.

Well, there is one gambler in a Las Vegas spot who is going to think again before he puts up.

The weather has caused a number of delays in the tests this year, some have been called off only minutes before a nuclear explosion was scheduled.

Picks-Up Some Change
An Army lieutenant from Camp Desert Rock had picked up some change on the first 10 delays. Well, some time back the Army man found himself in possession of a leave slip on the day a bomb was to be set off. So he went to Las Vegas to try his good right hand on the slot machines.

It was early in the morning; just an hour before a scheduled atomic shot. He pulled and he hauled at the one-armed bandit, but the critter was stubborn. Nickel after nickel was gulped in. Finally one of those cheroot chewing gamblers in a purple vest sauntered up.

"Say," said the soldier, "what are the odds this shot goes today?"

Apparently the gambler had learned the hard way that you can't trust a dumb.

"Ten to one she doesn't," he said.

Takes Ten
"I'll take 10 of that," said the lieutenant, dropping another nickel into the machine.

Half hour later, the lieutenant, who still hadn't licked the iron robber for more than 5 or 10 nickels turned to be gambler again.

"What are the odds now?"

"Five to one she's no go."

The shavetail put up another saw-buck.

Both watched their time-pieces for the big boom that might or might not come.

With the zero hour seconds away, the lieutenant spoke again.

"What now, man?"

"Even."

"You're on for $100," said the soldier, fishing in his pocket.

A nymc later, a brilliant flash lighted the countryside for miles about. There also was a thunderous boom.

Gambler Turns Purple
The gambler turned the color of his vest, and started peeling off fives and 10's and 20's, considerably reducing the size of his green bundle.

"How the devil did you hit it? You know something?" the oddsman asked.

"Sure," said the soldier, wadding bills into his pocket. "I know this was the 11th time the shot was scheduled. This is the seventh of the month. Seven come 11. And thanks, sir."

Just for luck, the lieutenant put another nickel in the slot machine to take a five-nickel winner off.

Out came almost $10 in nickels.

from the jackpot. He put the jitneys in his cap bid the gambler man "ado, and headed back for camp.

Scene of Conflict

NEW OUTBREAKS of violence, just east of the Gaza strip have increased tension in the Israeli-Egyptian border. Reports indicate that a band of Egyptians hurled grenades at a Jewish wedding celebration, killing a woman and injuring 19 others. The attack shortly after Egypt had urged that the Negev (shaded area on map), now held by Israel, be returned to Arab control. This would provide a land-link between Egypt and her Arab neighbors. The proposition was considered Egypt's "price" for a role in the new Middle Eastern defense pact. (C. P.)

The ship was seized by Chinese Nationalists last June while en route to Red China.

Coccidiosis Retards Weight

Recent drug developments have made it possible for the nation's poultrymen to reduce disease losses an estimated $112 million annually from coccidiosis alone, and a big share of this saving has come from birds that weigh more when ready for the market.

The loss from coccidiosis to poultrymen is measured in the value of birds killed by severe outbreaks of the disease; in stunted birds that grow slowly; in fewer good pullets for the laying house; and in extra feed used because of lowered feed conversion.

A new development in the anticoccidial field will probably see more poultry feeds than ever before containing drugs to overcome this costly parasitic disease.

The American Cyanamid Company has announced a more effective blend of its Megazol nitrophenol, which first appeared in 1949 and is the most widely used anticoccidial today.

Both broilers in the photo are ten weeks old. Each was raised under the same conditions, except that the one on the left received Megazol antiparasitic in its feed, the other did not. The drain of the always-present disease of coccidiosis caused the broiler on the right to weigh less—3 lbs., 8 oz.—than the treated bird, which weighed 4 lbs., 6 oz. Both are male birds.

The cost of treating birds with the new preparation is low, Cyanamid spokesman say. The new Megazol blend, like its predecessor, can be fed continuously to a flock of broilers to prevent the parasitic disease from birth to market weight at a cost of only about one cent per bird.

The penny invested invariably comes back many times over, trials show. On the average, the additional profit payable to the use of a coccidial is about 10 cents per bird, but can be as high as 14 cents to 15 cents per bird, figured on a 25-cent market.

Tigers Fail To Cooperate

By JACK GAYER

NEW YORK 30—Almost anyone will go out of his way to accommodate the demands of television in order to appear on it, but one tiger.

That's why you won't see the stripes Tuesday night when the Handley expects to dream of elephants for some weeks to come. There will be 35 on the telecast, including 20 "babies" making their first public appearance.

"There will also be a visit to 'Clown Alley,' where we'll meet Emmett Kelly, Felix Adler and all of the rest," Handley said.

TWO WOMEN SHOT BY A ROBBER

THREE THUGS held up a loan company office in New York City and shot two women employees while making their escape. The office manager was struck on the head with the butt of a shotgun during the robbery. About $1,000 was taken. Mrs. Geraldine Halderman (top) is shown on the way to the hospital after she was struck in the abdomen by pellets from holdupman's shotgun. The young mother-to-be is in critical condition. At bottom, Hilda Wasterman lies in ambulance. She was the other victim of the robber's bullets.
